

EXPLORE Dirranbandi

Southwest of St George, Dirranbandi is a small country town that comes alive through the cotton harvest months. If you have heard of the famous Cubbie Station, then you will be interested to know that the largest irrigated cotton farm in the southern hemisphere is only a stone's throw away from this small town. As you drive into Dirranbandi, you'll pass by the town's levee bank which is famous for having saved the town from flooding on more than one occasion.

Why not discover the magnitude of Cubbie Station for yourself on tour with Dirranbandi Outback Tours. Touring the station will showcase the incredible work that has gone into developing Australia's largest cotton farm as well as a greater understanding of the cotton industry.

Uncover the town's history with a visit to Dirranbandi's River & Rail Precinct. Dirranbandi marks the end of the South West rail line and was the destination of the very last mail train to operate in Australia. Call into Railway Park to find the old waiting room, the original parcels office and the 1913 Station Master's residence, now the Dirranbandi Rural Transaction Centre. Here you can chat with a local and find out more about the town's history.

If you're looking for a quiet spot to picnic, head to Jack Dwyer Memorial Park or throw in a line from the pontoon to land a Murray Cod or Yellowbelly.
